Washington, July 24.—A detailed account of a reputed attempt to buy enough democratic votes in the Illinois Abrahams, the 'belwether,' I have been legislature to re-slect Albert J. It followed Mr. Keeley's testimony as to how he happened to buy the confession of Charles A. White, the legislator whose account of graft at Springfield resulted in the Lorimer investigation. It was subsequent to testimony by Edward Hines that Henry S. Boutell, now American minister to Switzerland, told him President Taft would agsist in the election of Lorimer to the senate.

Got Story in Roundabout Way. Got Story in Roundabout Way.

Mr. Keeley said what he knew about the Hopkins story was obtained from Clifford Raymond, then representing the Tribune at Springfield, and from the Tribune at Springfield, and from Ira C. Copley, representative in congress from Aurora, Ill. He testified that Charles Wheeler, another Chicago newspaperman at Springfield, came to Raymond during the legislative session in 1903 and told him a story which Speaker Shurtleff had personally requested be not printed. What Raymond told Mr. Kezley, the witness testified, Raymond said had been told him by Wheeler. Mr. Kezley said:

ARBUCKLE TESTIFIES

FROM SICK BED. Says Sherman Law Prevented the Set-

There were minor considerations, but every time the matter was broached to John Arbuckle when the fight waxed warm, Mr. Arbuckle declined and told his opponents to remember the Sherman law.

He then produced a memorandum of what Copley had said. It was to the effect that "Daniel Byrnes, formerly of the Chicago Northwestern, was the man who tried to put through the deal," and that the money was taken to Springfield by a resident of Wheaton, Ill. New York, July 24.—That money is the power that will decide the outcome of the present revolutionary movement in Haiti, is the opinion ex-pressed today by passengers who re-turned from Haitien ports on board the steamer Albingia.

President Simon has behind him at Port au Prince, the capital, between 3,000 and 3,500 men. If he pays them their full wages regularly they will fight, and he will have a good chance of breaking up the revolutionary move-ment, the leaders of which, particument, the leaders of which, particularly LeConte and Firmin, are bickering among themselves. President Simon has money to meet the demands of his soldiers and the belief was expressed that he would gladly pay it out to accomplish his purpose.

HOUSE OF COMMONS IN A WILD UPROAR. Premier Asquith Howled Down When He Attempted to Speak.

London, July 24 .- The last act of the parliamentary revolution was ushered in today with a revolutionary scene. in today with a revolutionary scene. For the first time in its history, the house of commons refused to listen to a speech by the prime minister. For the first time in its history the speaker of the house was compelled to invoke the rule which empowers him "in case of grave disorder" to declare the sitting adjourned on his own responsibility.

During three-quarters of an read a sentence or two script, only to be ov jeers, hootings and cries, among which "traitor" was the most frequent, but "Redmond," "Patrick Ford" and "American dollars" often distinguishable. Again and again the prime minister tried to speak, but his voice was drowned in the uproar. He gave uterances to a few broken sentences, a word of two of which could be heard.

Would Not Degrade Himseilf. Finally his mouth hardened and he glared at his termentors like a lion at bay—an impressive figure with straight cut features flushed with anger, and heavy gray hair. He folded his manu-script and cried: "I am not going to degrade myself. I shall simply state the conclusion at which the govern-ment has arrived."

Announced Government's Intentions. Having announced the government's intentions as briefly and hurriedly as possible—though they were not heard—the premier sank back into his seat.

Leaders of the Disorder. The leaders in the outburst against the prime minister were Lord Hugh Cecil, an intensely unpopular member of one of the patrician families, and a young barrister, F. E. Smith, who recently achieved prominence in the conservative party. The former kept up a constant fire of monotonous cries, and the labor member, Will Crooks, in rough clothes and slouch hat sifting across the sign several hat, sitting across the aisle, several times jumped up as though about to assault him, but was pulled back by friendly hands.
